Dear John:

During the design phase when our architect first showed me the brochure on the InSpire solar wall, I immediately knew it was a natural fit for the Pottstown renovation project. Speaking as an engineer, the design struck me as simple, elegant and a highly effective complement to other sustainable technologies we intended to incorporate into the project.

Now that the first system has been up and running for a full year, I thought you would be pleased to hear we have been able to maintain the design temperature without having to use the natural gas fired backup systems. The initial return on investment projection was two years. I think you just beat that by a mile.

The InSpire product has exceeded my expectations. Thanks for your help in bringing it together in our project.

Sincerely,

Craig Cigas
